

One Stop to Discovering Repayment Solutions

In October, President Obama announced a series of new measures aimed at easing the burden of debt on students struggling to repay their student loans. His administration acknowledged that students borrowing more than one student loan need a variety of solutions to repay their student loans. With the upcoming changes to the Income Contingent Repayment plan and multitude of existing options, you need resources to make it easier for your students to get a handle on their student loans on their own. We can help. At SimpleTuition's PayBack Smarter, students can find the loan repayment plan that works for their unique circumstances. What makes PayBack Smarter different from other websites is the ability to see repayment plan calculations in one place for both federal and private loans. PayBack Smarter makes it simple to find answers because it provides a bird's eye view of student debt. Our tool allows students to:

- Learn how to lower their monthly payment
- See options for paying back loans faster
- Discover how consolidating loans will affect payments
- Answer common student loan questions in plain language
